TRIO ARRESTED AT FT. WAYNE FOR PASSING MEXICAN DOLLARS.

Decatur Auxious for New Industries-Greencastle Horse Sale-General State News-Indiana Obituary.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FORT WAYNE, Ind., May 21.-Detective Coling, of the city force, made an important arrest this morning of three strangers who have been flooding the city in the outskirts with genuine Mexican dollars. They gave the names of Frank G. Robinson, Zaza Robinson, his wife, and Henry Cohen. They were found at a boarding house on East Wayne street, and a search of their effects disclosed a shot bag containing 500 mexican dollars, a seven-shooter revolver, $200 in good American money and a letter from the Bank of Mexico, City of Mexico, saying that a shipment of silver dollars had been made according to order. The dollars are worth about 44 cents, and the trio made 66 cents on every one passed. The scheme of the people was to make small purchases at corner groceries or saloons, and, putting down the Mexican money, cagle side up, secure the change and leave. The Robinson woman actually "worked" one corner grocery twice. She is a real Mexican, and has the brunette type of feature and complexion. She is remarkably pretty. She told the officers that she and her husband had been arrested thirty-seven times in Michigan, Ohio and other places, but always released. There seems to be no law to reach the trio, and the officers escorted them to the railway station and saw that they took the first train out of town. There had been much complaint about the circulation of the Mexican dollars, and the real effect of what free coinage would mean has been demonstrated to a number of small dealers and to saloon keepers.

Spencer, who was killed last week while resisting arrest after he had shot and wounded a policeman, was in fact Tom Mannion. Mannion was released last year from the Ohio penitentiary, where he was serving sentence for his part in a $40,000 diamond robbery committed at Columbus, O., seven years ago. After leaving the Ohio prison Mannion went South. In Kansas City he was known

She says: "LaGrippe left me with a severe case of nervous depression and nervous dyspepsia, which soon affected my heart. THE PRESS AND PENNYPACKER. Pennsylvania's Governor Has Chance to Test His Own Law.

New York Evening Sun. "I know no method to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws so effectual as their strict construction," said President Grant in his first inaugural address. The Grady-Salus Libel law cannot remain on the statute book of Pennsylvania as a dead letter. It must be repealed or declared unconstitutional, and if Governor Pennypacker has the courage of his convictions he will take up the gage thrown down by the newspapers. They have flouted his law, they are training their cartoon batteries upon him, they court prosecution and damage suits a man more cleverly and relentlessly lampooned and caricatured. We can imagine nothing more salutary for the Philadelphia press than this experience with an unrepublican and oppressive libel law. Public spirit and bold independence have not been qualities it has been able to boast. Let us hope that after it has excoriated the Governor and trampled upon his libel law it will continue to make a courageous use of its freedom Jefferson said that he would rather live in a country with newspapers and without law than in one with law but without newspapers. A child can see the acumen of this proposition. The Grady-Salus law is unenforceable under the American form of republican government. It passes comprehension that a Governor who had been a judge could sign such a measure and that a Governor who is a historian could peruse it without indignation. The memorandum giving Governor Pennypacker's reasons for approving the bill displays such spleen and intolerance that it might be said that in his case universal suffrage was a failure. A Young Inventor.

Street Dust. New Bedford Standard. There can be no doubt that the filling of the air with clouds of fine street dust is in more ways than one injurious to the health. This dust cloud is especially harmful to persons with delicate throats and lungs, and it must be no inconsiderable factor in aggravating the all-prevalent catarrhal affections with which so many people afflicted. Communities which permit this disgrace lack progressiveness. There ought to be genius to devise a remedy, and there ought to be public spirit and intelligence to carry it into operation.
